New Eurowings Services to the Canary Islands

Eurowings will launch a total of 6 flights a week to the Canary Islands (2x Tenerife, 2x Fuerteventura, 1x Gran Canaria, and 1x Lanzarote) from the start of the 2025/26 winter season. Tickets are already on sale on the carrier's website; flights will be operated from 29 October 2025.

SkyUp Airlines Is Back at Prague Airport

We are very pleased to welcome back SkyUp Airlines to Prague Airport with its new route from Chisinau – scheduled launch on 2 June 2025. The flights will be operated twice a week - on Mondays and Saturdays – using a Boeing 737-700 aircraft with a capacity of 149 passengers.

Prague Airport at Routes Europe 2025

The Routes Europe 2025 conference took place in Seville from 8 to 10 April 2025. This prestigious platform focused on the development of aviation in Europe offered a great opportunity for the Prague Airport Aviation Business and Airline Marketing teams to meet with representatives of more than 50 airlines during a dynamic three-day program, establish new contacts, and strengthen existing partnerships.

Our business partners and prospective customers were warmly invited to the E50 stand, where traditional Czech hospitality was in abundance, including the selected Czech beer tasting.

Asiana Airlines Operates the Prague – Seoul Route

As is proper and appropriate, the aircraft was welcomed with a water salute. With the kind permission of the airline, we then invited journalists, partners, and other guests to tour the aircraft. The Airbus A350-900 can accommodate up to 311 passengers and in the colours of Asiana Airlines will fly between Prague and Seoul three times a week all year round – on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Sundays. Thanks to this addition, the connection to the South Korean metropolis is now available on a daily basis.

PragBus Connects Prague with Chemnitz

A new direct coach service to Václav Havel Airport Prague from the German city of Chemnitz, the European Capital of Culture 2025, is now available. The new PragBus line will be operated by the Central Saxony Transport Association (Verkehrsverbund Mittelsachsen, VMS) between Prague and Chemnitz twice a day until 2 November, and then again from 28 to 30 November 2025. The new route was officially launched at Václav Havel Airport Prague on 7 April 2025.
